

There are very few vendors in your space that value integrity and the customers' needs, while most people are willing to follow trends blindly, some brands/companies/products have highly specific requirements and it is important to know the difference.

Edgecube listened to our needs and requirements and followed the brief given to them. The designs were brilliant, Execution was also largely problem free and timelines were kept with minimum intervention from "inpod".

Hassle free services, and great value for money which obviously translates into very good ROI. Our customers and peers alike congratulated "inpod" on the Acetech stall design and execution and it also won the Gold for the Grandstand awards in 2014.

Like working with someone who understands what we need and want and ensures that we have exactly that.

We were confident that "inpod" is in good hands!
